FEMALES, OWING TO THE seculiar and important relations which they sustain, their peculiar organization and the offices they perform, are subject to many sufferings. Freedom from these contribute in no small degree to their happiness and welfare, for none can be happy who are ill. Not only so, but no GILCHRIST, GRAY & CO.S. can long be suffered to run on without involving the general health of the in dividual, and ere long producing permanent sickness and premature decline. Nor is it pleasant to consulta physician for the relief of these various delicate affections, and only upon the most argent necessity will a true woman so far sacrifice her greatest charm as to do this. The sex will then thank us for placing in their STYNINGURANCE CLIOH hands simple specifics which will be found efficacious in relieving and curing almost every one of those troublesome complaints peculiar to the sex.

ists and doctors, who either merely tan tatalize them with the hope of a cure or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injustice to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that although it may be produced from excessive exhaustion of the powers of life, by laborious employment, unwholesome air and food, profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent childbirth, it is far oftener caused by direct irritation, applied to the mucous membrane of the ew Advertimements

When reviewing the causes of these istressing complaints, it is most painful contemplate the attendant evils con equent upon them. It is but simple ustice to the subject to enumerate a few of the many additional causes which so largely affect the life, health and happiand which, consequently, affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire numan family. The mania that exists for precocious education and marriage, causes the years that nature designed and perverted in the restraints of dress, pecially in the unhealthy excitement of the ball-room. Thus, with the body NAUCHTON'S half-clothed, and the mind unduly excited by pleasure, perverting in mid-night revel the hours designed by nature for sleep and rest, the work of destruction is half accomplished.

In consequence of this early strain NEW upon her system, unnecessary effort is required by the delicate votary to re tain her situation in school at a later day, thus aggravating the evil. When one excitement is over, another in prospective keeps the mind morbidly sensi-tive to impression, while the now con-stant restraint of fashionable dress, absolutely torbidding the exercise indis-pensable to the attainment and retention osure to night air; the sudden change of temperature; the complete prostra-tion produced by excessive dancing, must, of necessity, produce their legitimate effect. At last, an early marriage caps the climax of misery, and the unfortunate one, hitherto so utterly regardless of the plain dictates and remon-strances of her delicate nature, becomes an unwilling subject of medical treat-ment. This is but a truthful picture of the experience of thousands of our young

Long before the ability to exercise the unctions of the generative organs, they require an education of their peculiar nervous system, composed of what is called the tissue, which is, in common with the female breast and lips, evidently under the control of mental emotions and associations at an early period of ife; and, as we shall subsequently see, hese emotions, when excessive, lead, long before puberty, to habits which sap

HON. C. W. WOODWARD, vania, writes:
PHILADELPHIA, March 18, 1867.
I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases and of the digestive organs, and of great benity and want of nervous action in the system.
Yours truly, ___GEO, W. WOODWARD.

HON, JAMES THOMPSON, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. PHILADELPHIE, April 28, 1856.

I consider "Hoofand's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in cases of attacks of Indirection or Dyspepsia. I can ce tily this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect.

Old Dugood's Dog.

Old Dugood came into the bar room the other day and took a seat among the idlers there assembled. The dog ques-tion was under discussion, and after lis-tening to a few wonderful stories, Duood chipped in as follows:

"Now, boys, you may all talk as you lease about the smart things dogs hev lone, but I can jest tell you something done, but I can jest tell you something that will lay over all your stories.

"I don't 'spect you'll believe a man when he's a tellin' ye's the truth, but this is as true as the Gospel.

"Yous all know that big yaller dog of mine? Well, that dog is the smartest dog in this drive. He's an intellectual dog, he is. Now, I know you won't believe me, but that ar' dog's been larnin't to sing."

"Learning to sing? Get out !" interrupted one of the listeners. "Yes, sir, that's so, every word of it; and I'll jest tell you how it was. T'other night we had some singing at our house. You know our Sal's been goin' to the singin' school lately, and she and the other gals, and the young fellers what go, hev got so they can squawk like the very blazes. And so most ev-On Tuesday a beavy dry goods house ery night they meet at somebody's house and practice.

"Well, the other night there was whole crew on 'em at our house, and they had a big time. Such a screechin and squallin, and a bellerin you never heard in all your lives. You'd a thought that a whole gang of tom cats had broke loose and tackled Squire Jones' big bull, and wor tackled Squire Jones' big bull, and wor jest having it hot and heavy. Well, that ar' dog was in the room while they wor singin', and he was the most interested creature I ever saw. He watched 'em beatin' time and goin' through their manoovers, and 'peared to understand 'em as well as they did. At first they sung lively tunes you know, and metr seem lively tunes, you know; and purty soon, when they got tired of these, they commenced on psalms and hymns and other serious things. The dog, he peared to like these better than he did the lively unes, and sot down as close up to 'em as he could while they sung.

"At last the gals coaxed Jim Blow-hard to sing "Old Eun lred." You know what an old tearing base voice Jim has. When he commenced, the dog began to get dreadfully interested. He pinted his nose right up at the celin, and every time Jim came to the low otes, he'd sorter howl."

"Who ? Jim ?" "No, blast you, the dog. Blowhard he sung away fer a while, and just then he turned round and kinder bit his hind

"Gosh almighty! Blowhard?"
"No, you all-fired fool you, the dog, of course. Then sez I to the old woman. 'Nancy Jane,' sez I, 'you just bet your boots that dog's something in his head.' And Nancy Jane sez she, 'you git out— I shant do it.' Jest then the dog picked somethin' up in his mouth and bolted out of the room quicker'n a streak. I didn't pay much attention to it, and nobody else noticed it.

"When Blowhard finished, all the gals crowded round him and commenced flatterin' on him, when suddenly we al heard a noise. It was the orfullest mixed up noise ever anybody heard. Everybody was scart nearly to death. the gals fainted away into Blowhard's arms all at once. They wor hangin' on to him from all sides, like string beans on a pole. Blowhard sot still for a minit or two; it was more huggin' than he could stand, and he wilted right off his seat on to the floor and tried to craw under the sofa. Before he got more'r his head and shoulders under, the gals all came to and caught him by the feet and tried to pull him out. Blowhard he hung onto the sofa legs and bellowed murder, and the galls screeched, and sum on um run around the room nineteen times in a minute before they could find anything else to faint onto. "I picked up a candle and rushed into the back yard, with two or three of the spunkiest men, and what do you think that ar interllectual old dog was doin? He'd got a music book spread out before him, and he was beatin' time with his tail on a tin pan, and a howlin 'Ole Hundred' like all possessed."—Golden

An Unfortunate Mistake. Mark Twain says that while sleeping ecently at the Sherman House, in Chicago, he was placed in a room so high up that water boiled there at 168 deg., and although it was destitute of many of the luxuries of a comfortable bedroom, he was not sorry he was sent there, as it enabled him to overhear the following story told by one friend to another, in an adjoining apartment. "No, she wouldn't marry me. You were misin-formed. It was broken off and in the saddest way. I was not in the least to blame, upon my word and honor, though neither the girl nor her father the deacon ever believed me or ever forgave me. It was during the big election canvass when Lincoln ran the first time. Twothirds of the deacon's honest soul was in religion and the other third in politics-Lincoln man. I never was a scoffer at religion in my life, but he half be lieved I was. Well, there was to be political pow-wow in the village church where he lived, on a Thursday night, and he was to preside. I never thought anything about the matter, but Williams hailed me one afternoon, offered me a seat in the buggy, and away we start ed. It was Wednesday, curse the almanac-but we never thought of it. Going into town, some devilish instinct put it into my head that it would help case along if I marched into the church with a rail upon my shoulder, seeing that the deacon and the girl would both be there. So I got a rail, and we came into town, shouting and making a grand to-do generally. As we went by the church windows I caught a glimpse of her bonnet, and plenty other bonnets, and I was happy. I shouldered my rail and marched in. The houseful of men and women were all quiet, and the old deacon was standing up in the altar saying something. Splendid! I went a booming up the sisle with my rail, swinging my hat and whooping, "Hoo-ray for Old Abe! Hoo-ray for the Illinois rail-splitter!"

"But never a yelp out of that audience.

NUMBER 97.

before that congregation, I'd have given a million of dollars for somebody to take that rail out for me. But no, I had to sneak out with it myself. I threw it down and went up where there was a board fence and practiced climbing backwards and forwards for as mach an hour. But my goose was cooked, you know. It was all up between me and that family?"
